

Covered Girls

1001 Inventions - Discover The Muslim Heritage In Our World

I must admit, when a friend of mine Facebook-posted a video about 1001 Inventions-Discover The Muslim Heritage In Our World, the nerd in me did several consecutive back flips! You see, I love history, I love science, and I love Islam. I especially love them all together and this exhibit encompasses all three in one spot! What more could a girl ask for?

If you don't know what 1001 Inventions-Discover The Muslim Heritage In Our World is, I will now take the liberty to inform you. 1001 Inventions is a traveling global exhibit (now stationed in South Kensington, London) that is aimed at educating the masses on the "social, scientific and technological achievements" made possible by the past one thousand years of Muslim civilization.

As you can probably imagine, I would absolutely LOVE to attend this exhibition. Unfortunately, I don't have any immediate plans to visit England so I will have to wait until they come to North America. I assure you, however, that I most definitely will be at this exhibition when it opens here, Insha'Allah.

To my British friends and family: GO AND MAKE SURE TO TELL ME HOW WONDERFUL IT PROBABLY IS! :)

-Mariam

P.S. Special thanks to the friend who introduced 1001 Inventions-Discover the Muslim Heritage In Our World exhibit to me!