

Golden Age Of Islam Presents World With 1001 Inventions

2010 APRIL 17

by Ron Callari

tags: Audio/Video Gadgets

If 1001

Arabian Nights provided us with a romanticized and idealized version of the Arab world, 9/11 was a certainly a stark wake-up call to a harsher view of Muslim life. Over the last 10 years, processing these two extremes has been difficult for many of us. With that said, an exhibit like the one featured at the London Museum of Science and Industry is sure to open our eyes to the great contributions made by Islamic civilizations over the course of the last millennium.

