DO ... explore the colorful creative works of film director Tim Burton with a visit to the fabulous new exhibit at LACMA. Opened May 29, the highly anticipated exhibit features 700 drawings, paintings, photographs, storyboards, puppets, costumes and much more from the revered SoCal native, whose groundbreaking work takes cues from gothic fairytales, cartoons and pop culture. The exhibit will continue through Oct. 31 at LACMA's Resnick Pavilion. CLICK HERE TO READ ABOUT THE 2010 OPENING OF THE NEW RESNICK PAVILION.

DO ... see "1001 Inventions," the newest interactive exhibit that is making a stop at the California Science Center on its tour around the world. From London to Istanbul and on now in LA, the exhibition reveals how immensely the Muslim world's scientific advancements in the past thousand years have shaped today's world. Explore how modern numbers came to be, the oldest known map of America and centuries-old medical instruments. Don't miss the life-size elephant clock replica. Free and open the public through Dec. 2011. CLICK HERE TO WATCH A VIDEO ABOUT THE FASCINATING EXHIBITION.

DO ... stroll through LA's Art Walks. From Downtown's burgeoning art scene to Venice's longstanding funkiness to San Pedro's eclectic collections near Los Angeles Harbor, local art walks give both locals and visitors an opportunity to get the true flavor of a community, not to mention a much-needed art fix.
